WHY THE SACRIFICE?

The Harrisburg Telegraph, in commenting on the jubilant claims of the Democrats that Pennsylvania will be carried for Wilson, says that on the face of the situation the Republican camp seems to be divided about evenly, half of it having gone into the Bull Moose camp. These views are shared by political observers generally, as practical men do not see how the Republican vote in the state can be cut in half without resulting in a plurality for Wilson. "In other words," says the Telegraph, "Pennsylvania, the home of protected industry, the chief of all the States as a beneficiary of the Republican tariff, is to be turned over to Wilson and free trade because a lot of Republicans are going to throw their votes away on the futile candidacy of Roosevelt."

This is the situation, and it is hard to realize that Republicans will deliberately sacrifice the economic policies of their party just because they do not approve the choice of the Chicago convention. Admitting that Col. Roosevelt was the undoubted choice of a large number of Republicans, this is no reason for deliberately consigning the great economic principles of Republicanism to defeat. That same spirit manifested at municipal and county primary elections would doom the system to failure. It is to be hoped that all Republicans in the state will realize the crisis they are facing when they come to cast their ballots, and will not at the last moment let their admiration for the personal qualities of one man warp their judgment in meeting a grave economic situation.

GOOD ROADS AT STAKE.

The men to be elected to the state senate and house of representatives next Tuesday will determine whether the proposed amendment of the constitution permitting fifty million dollars of bonds to be used for road construction shall go before the people. Twenty-six senators and two hundred and seven representatives are to be elected, each of whom will have a vote in the election of good roads. This is why Governor Tener in his Charleroi speech stated that it is important to have a legislature in accord with the executive in carrying out the progressive policies outlined in the platform.

Our Moving Picture Show

TWO REELS

Part I

He wooed her with words sweet and low,
And finally induced her to go—
The innocent country girl To the city's mad whirl Where pleasures unceasing do flow.

Part II

Then she found she'd been deceived By the man in whom she believed, So back home much wiser To those who did prize her She went, and their minds thus relieved.

Watch this space Monday

Keystone State to make certain of it, because each branch of the Legislature will be called upon to vote finally on the resolution favoring the amendment of the Constitution. The measure was passed in 1911, without opposition and if the two houses concur on it in 1913, it will go before the voters of Pennsylvania for their action.

Therefore it is important to have legislators committed to the policy of good roads. We all know Governor Tener's position and he knows the position of the men he wants to help him carry out his good roads plans.
No legislative session in the history of the state has been as important to the cause of good roads as that which will be composed of the members to be elected next Tuesday.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Of course when Frank Coffin was picking a girl to make an aeroplane fight with him at the Yale-Harvard game it was only natural he should select a Charleroi, Washington county product.

The Turk claims he will have to be a blame sight more licked than he is now before he will give up to any pesky army like the Balkan allies have put up. And he is running his own business.

From the campaign speeches now being forced into politics, Lincoln and McKinley must certainly have been much misunderstood men.

Gov. Wilson has declared for free trade. What admirable frankness!

It takes a formal introduction for some women to become acquainted with their own mind.

The Balkan armies have seen to it that a new kind of Turkey Trot has been invented.

Sometime even a serious minded man can be solemn.

No, Madge, a hunter doesn't always go on a still hunt.

Doggone it all. The government will reduce the size of the bills. Then the leather trust will put out smaller sized pocket books which we will have to buy.

Anyhow, the old fashioned folks cannot truthfully declare the old fashioned kind of Hallowe'en celebration any more enjoyable than the new style.

It takes the exuberance of a Hallowe'en observance to demonstrate just how big fools we all are.

There is always somebody to tell you you're an idiot, even though they can't add their endorsement.

We all admire a cheerful man Who goes right in to win.
And when defeated takes it calm And even palls a grin.

A Democrat says the Republican party is the only party that has a platform.

Republican party provides a market for the good crops.

Everybody is afraid these days except the burglar. He'd be afraid too, if he had enough sense.

The flies seem to be taking their time making their final exit.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Adjutant General Thomas J.
Stewart, one of the speakers at the Republican rally here this week, tells a story that the Governor of Virginia told while with Governor Tener he was at Culpepper attending the dedication of the soldiers' monument there. It seems that a traveler along the country roads in that district passed a cabin in front of which a husky negro woman was beating a small boy, whose outcries were most vociferous.

"Hold on there!" shouted the traveler, stopping his horse. "Stop beating that child."

"Wall, he's by boy. Gess I can done gone wallop 'im if I want to," the woman replied.

And she proceeded to again vigorously apply the rod.

"What has he done that you beat him so unmercifully?" asked the traveler, who had alighted from his buggy.

"Done?" shrieked the woman, in a frenzied tone, "why the mis'ble good fer-nothin' done gone left the chicken house doah open last night an' de chickens all got out."

"Oh, if that's the case that is no reason to beat the boy in that manner.
The chicken will come home again.
"Dat's the whole trouble boss, dem ar' chickens is all done gone home."

It is stated that the other evening a bibulous individual went into a barroom, and seeing a number of acquaintances, sought to be funny.

Backoning the bartender he exclaimed in a loud voice so that all could hear, and his alleged wit would not be lost:
"Give me an aeroplane nightban."
"Don't you think it would be better for you," asked the bartender, "in the condition you're in to just buy a plain beer?"

Over the County

80th Anniversary

Last Sunday the Amity Methodist Protestant church celebrated its 80th anniversary. The church is one of the oldest of its creed in Washington county. Large crowds attended each session and much interest was manifested. Many excellent addresses were given at every session and many greetings in form of letter were received from former pastors and members.

Diphtheria Closes School.

The Alexander School, a suburb of Canonsburg, has been closed on account of diphtheria. There were six or eight cases in the schools.

To Hold Corn Exhibit.

Arrangements are well under way for the corn contest to be held at Old Concord on Tuesday, November 12.
Each contestant must make an exhibit of ten ears of corn raised in the county and give a receipt for the number of ears placed in the exhibit.

Disastrous Barn Fire.

In a fire of mysterious origin the barn of Matthew Wylie of near Mc-Connell's Mills was destroyed between 1 and 2 o'clock Wednesday. The loss is estimated at about $3,500 with no insurance being carried by Mr. Wylie.

Cross Creek Pastor Called.

Rev. H. W. Hanna, pastor of the Cross Creek Presbyterian church has received a call to become pastor of the New Freeport Presbyterian church in Armstrong county. Mr.
Hanna has not notified his congregation as to what he expects to do.

New School House Up to Date.

The new school house at Crucible near Rice's Landing is nearly completed. The building is a frame structure having four rooms on the first floor and an auditorium on the second floor. Two rooms are ready to be occupied as soon as seated and school is expected to begin by another week.

Fruit for Epileptics.

Members of the Scenery Hill Lutheran church have packed a barrel of canned fruit which has been sent to the Home for Epileptics at Rochester, Pa.

Night Mine School at Ellsworth.

Classes in mining for those desiring to prepare for the state mining examinations have been organized at Ellsworth. The course as outlined by the state inspectors will be taught.
The classes will be held every Monday and Friday evenings.

Potato is Productive.

A. L. Haggerty, of Cross Creek dug potatoes amounting to 47 pounds all raised from a single potato of the species known as "The Farmer."

Dogs Raid Sheep Flock.

Dogs raided a flock of sheep belonging to R. P. Manson in Mt. Pleasant township one night last week, killing three and wounding several. The sheep were thoroughbred, which Mr.
Manson valued highly.

Send Clothes to Indians.

The young ladies of the Mount Pleasant United Presbyterian church will send a box of new and second hand clothing to Tama, Iowa for the Tama Indians.

An Underground Canal.

Between Worsley and St. Helens, in the north of England, is the most remarkable canal in the world. It is underground, from end to end, and is sixteen miles long. In Lancashire the coal mines are very extensive, half the country being undermined, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. The canal was constructed and the mines connected and drained at the same time. Ordinary canal boats are used, but the power is furnished by men. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross pieces, and the men do the work of propulsion by lying on their backs on the coal and pushing with their feet against the crossbars on the roof. A. R. gonaut.

Bytes on Bills.

Among the humorous memories connected with English judges is one of Justice Byles and his horse. This eminent jurist was well known in his profession for his work on "Bills," and as this gave a fine opportunity for alliteration his associates were accustomed to bestow the name on the horse, which was but a sorry steed. "There goes Byles on Bills," they took pleasure in saying, and as the judge rode out every afternoon they indulged daily in their little joke. But the truth was that the horse had another name, known only to the master and his man, and when a too curious client inquired as to the judge's whereabouts he was told by the servant, with a clear conscience that "master was out on Business."

HIDEOUS PUNISHMENTS.

Murderers Were Once Buried Alive Tied to Their Victims.

Old time punishment for offenses at sea was most severe. The code of the time of Richard I. of England, drawn up for the government of his fleet on the crusades, provided "that whoso killed any person on shipboard should be tied with him that was slain and thrown into the sea. And if he killed him on the land he should in like manner be tied with the party slain and be buried with him in the earth."

In Elizabeth's time a thief was to be ducked three times, towed ashore at the stern of a boat and marooned with a loaf of bread and a can of beer. Motiny was punishable by the culprit's being hanged by his heels "until his brains were beaten out against the ship's side."

The penalties imposed for sleeping on watch were progressive. For the first offense the man was to be "headed" with a bucket of water; on the next occasion he was to be strung up by his wrists and to have two buckets of water poured into his sleeves; the third time he would be loaded with weights and bound to the mast, and "for the fourth time he was to be hanged to the boltsprit, with a can of beer and a biscotte of brende and a sharp knife, and so to hang and choose whether he would cutte himself down and fall into the sea or hang still and starve."

Among the rules issued by Raleigh for the governing of his South American expedition in 1617 was that no man should be allowed to gamble for his arms or clothes "on the pain of being disarmed and made a swabber of the ship." A general punishment for blasphemy at this time was for the offender to be bound to the mainmast with an iron bit between his teeth, the alternative being a scraping of the tongue. All sorts of odd and frequently hideous punishments are to be found described in old manuscripts. In 1775 a man found drunk aboard or ashore was taken care of until the following morning, when in the presence of the ship's company he was presented with a pint of salt water, which he had to drink.

The dreaded "cat" is probably the best known of these old naval punishments. Whipping was provided for at least as long ago as the fifteenth century, and in Drake's time the regular trouncing of the ship's boys by the boatswain on Monday morning was regarded as the only means of insuring a fair wind for the rest of the week. Chicago News.

Franklin on Long Graces.

Ben Franklin found the long graces used by his father before and after meals very tedious. One day after the winter's provision had been killed he said, "I think, father, if you were to say grace over the whole crew every day it would be a great saving of time."

Seventeenth Century Grocers.

Department stores would have fared hard in the seventeenth century unless their proprietors could have provided themselves with more privileges than were allowed to other shopkeepers. The articles that a grocer might sell were definitely prescribed. They were: "raysons, currants, sugar, spice, sope, candle, molasses, gunpowder, shot, match, tar, pitch, rosin, tobacco, cotton yarn, starch, blunne, prunes, figs, linseed oil, lead, olives, figs, Spanish white alabaster, alum, almonds, brimstone, lampblack and candle rushes."

No Money, No Marriage.

"A fortune teller told me that you are going to marry me," said the young man with the prominent socks.

"Did she also tell you that you are going to inherit a very large fortune?" inquired the girl with the matinee hair. "She didn't say anything about a fortune."

"Then she is not much of a fortune teller, and you had better not place any reliance in anything she says," Washington Herald.

Maternalism.

Kind Gentleman—What are you going to do, Johnny, when you become a man? Johnny—Nawthin'. Kind Gentleman—What? Not going to do anything? Johnny—No. Just as soon as I started something ma would tell me to stop it.—Judge.

Never Tempted.

"George Washington never told a lie." "Well, he wasn't much of a fisherman anyway"—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Swordsmanship Against a Tiger.

Sir James Outram, known as the Bayard of India, was a "mighty hunter" and an accomplished swordsman. He once performed the hazardous feat of killing a tiger with his sword and from the back of his horse. General Nicholson performed a similar feat. He rode round and round the tiger at a gallop, gradually narrowing the circle until at last he was near enough to deliver his blow. He had only the one blow and if he had failed would have been slain. The explanation of the feat is that the tiger does not spring upon the horseman during the circling process because he is watching his own mortality. As the circle draws closer and closer upon him he becomes bewildered by the strange maneuver, so unlike that of any hunter he has ever encountered.

GREAT HORN SPOONS.

The Ones That Are Made by Natives of Southern Alaska.

Horns of the Rocky mountain sheep the buffalo and the mountain goat are made into dishes, ladles and spoons. Some of these are carved, while others are both carved and inlaid with shell. The decoration is sometimes geometric, but often a conventional representation of animal forms. This is especially true of the spoons of the Indians on the coast of northern British Columbia and southern Alaska. A few of these spoons are so large, so wonderfully artistic and so well made from the horn of the rare Rocky mountain sheep that even a moderately good one may appropriately be called a "great horn spoon." These are of a rich golden yellow color. By far the greater number of horn spoons in this same region are made of the horn of the mountain goat, and these are black. A few have black handles of goat horn and golden bowls of sheep horn. All these handles are usually carved to represent traditional or mythical men, and mals or monsters belonging to the lore of the individual family, just as among our people silver spoons bear the family monogram.—Detroit Free Press.

Church Tower Belfries.

Probably you have noticed that the openings in the belfry of a church are usually filled with a number of slanting boards, sometimes covered with lead. These are improperly called louvers, and many persons imagine that they are so arranged as to keep out the rain. The right name for these slats is abatons, a word that means to throw down.

because the wet does not hurt the bells at all and rain can beat in through the openings very easily. They are designed to turn the wind of the bells downward, so that should the bells be struck they would not be damaged. In the middle ages some of these slats were made of wood and were painted to look like iron.

EAST COURT, PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

THE great East Court at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is designed for pageantry surpassing the famous Durbar of India. It will constitute a suitable setting for oriental or modern drama upon a colossal scale. From a huge staircase on the tops of its encircling walls the visitor to this "Court of Joy" will be enabled to witness the pageants that will be a feature of the exposition. The main tower of the court will contain a great pipe organ, with echo organs in the smaller towers within the center of the main tower. In a basin containing groupings of classic statuary, dancing figures, fawns, satyrs and nymphs. Electric scintillators will play upon the water at night. Tropical shrubs and flowers will contrast with the white of the colonnades, statuary and facades of the court. In the center of the East Court, which will be among the main group of buildings, will resemble the oriental plane of the Spanish
